I love the Sydney100 website. It's a one stop website that lists all the things I'm likely to want to do in Sydney. I'm local and I still find it a fantastic reference for long weekend and holiday suggestions. Yes there are other websites, but nothing that lists the things to do in a concise format. Instead of going to 10 different websites for ideas, one will do the trick.

But, I'm not always near an internet connection when I'm planning my weekend, so I bought the book. I've now got all the information I need in an easy to read format I can look at any time. I even printed it out for mum and dad to read through when they were here (they're not so keen on looking at a computer screen as our generation!)"

Thanks so...
